Paper Title

Shadow AI in Organizations: Security Risks, Privacy Concerns and Governance Frameworks for Responsible AI Adoption

Abstract

Shadow AI—the unauthorized use of AI tools by employees without organizational oversight—is a rapidly escalating enterprise risk. Driven by productivity pressures, absent approved alternatives, and implicit leadership tolerance, it creates critical threats: data breaches averaging $4.63 million ($670,000 above standard incidents), systematic violations of GDPR, HIPAA, and PCI DSS, and irreversible intellectual property loss. With 65% of workers already using unsanctioned AI and only 9–12% of organizations operating functional governance frameworks, the preparedness gap is severe. Effective mitigation requires a "Consolidate, Don't Confiscate" governance model—providing enterprise-approved tools, applying a five-pillar framework (Accept, Enable, Assess, Restrict, Eliminate), deploying layered technical guardrails, and investing in sustained employee education.
